Agreement and Consent

Privacy Disclosure & Consent - Your Personal Information

To learn more about how we collect, use, disclose and safeguard your Personal Information, your choices, and the rights you have, please see our Privacy Code (available at bmo.com/privacy, or from any of our branches).

What is Personal Information?
Your Personal Information is information about you that you provided to us or information we collected from other sources such as credit reporting agencies, and includes your name, address, age, financial data, Social Insurance Number, employment information, and other information that could be used to identify you.

Why do we need your Personal Information?
We collect and use your Personal Information to:

SIT2

- verify your identity;
- ensure we have accurate information about you;
- understand your financial needs (including your eligibility for products and services you requested or accepted or were pre-approved for);
- manage our relationship;
- protect against fraud and manage other risks;
- communicate with you regarding products and services that may be of interest;
- understand our customers, including through analytics, and to develop and tailor our products and services;
- comply with legal or regulatory requirements, or as permitted by law; and
- respond to questions you may have.

We will also use your Personal Information to make decisions in real time by using tools to automate the processing of your Personal Information, for example, whether to approve or decline your loan. These decisions can affect the products, prices, services or features we may offer you and are also used to protect you from fraud.

If we use your Personal Information for a different purpose, we will identify that purpose.

Sharing your Personal Information
BMO Financial Group consists of Bank of Montreal and its affiliates. Your Personal Information, including information about your authorized representatives and beneficiaries, is shared within BMO Financial Group, to the extent permitted by law, to:

- ensure we have accurate information about you, and your authorized representatives and beneficiaries;
- manage our total relationship;
- provide a better customer experience;
- meet your needs as they change and grow; and

- manage our business.

Your Choices
Sharing: You may choose not to allow us to share account-specific information within BMO Financial Group, but you understand we will share your Personal Information where two or more BMO Financial Group affiliates provide you with jointly offered products or services.

Direct marketing: You may choose not to allow us to use your contact Information for direct marketing, such as mail, telemarketing or email informing you about products and services we think may be of interest and value to you.

Please see "Contact Us" in our Privacy Code for more details on how to opt out.

Consent to Credit Bureau

Credit Bureau Authorization and Monitoring

SIT2

You consent to BMO Financial Group and its agents using your Personal Information to obtain, validate or exchange credit information and other financially related information about you at any time during the term of this agreement from any credit reporting agency, credit bureau, other financial services industry databases, your employer(s) or any person who has or may have financial dealings with you for the purposes outlined in the Privacy Code. BMO Financial Group may use information you provide to us when opening or operating any accounts you have with us to confirm or validate such information with third parties.

If you do not have a credit product (e.g. credit card, mortgage, line of credit or other loan) with BMO Financial Group, you may withdraw your consent at any time – Please see "Contact Us" in our Privacy Code.

Terms and Conditions Applicable to Your BMO Bank Account Application

cdic
Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation

Protecting your deposits

SIT2

Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation (CDIC) is a federal Crown corporation that insures more than $1 trillion in deposits held in member institutions. CDIC is fully funded by our members and coverage is free and automatic – you don't have to sign up.

CDIC protects eligible deposits in Canadian and foreign currency for up to $100,000 (Canadian dollars) in each of CDIC's insurance categories.

What's covered?

- Deposits in Canadian or foreign currency (including via payroll, Interac e-transfer, or cheque)
- Guaranteed Investment Certificates (GICs)
- Other term deposits

What's not covered?

- Mutual funds
- Stocks and bonds
- Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs)
- Cryptocurrencies

Example: Jane Doe has placed the following funds at a CDIC member institution. Here's what does ✔ and does not ✖ qualify for CDIC coverage:

$ 40,000 in a GIC ✔
$ 25,000 in a savings account ✔
$ 25,000 in a chequing account ✔
$ 130,000 in mutual funds ✖

$ 220,000 = Total Portfolio
$ 90,000 = Total Eligible Deposits
$ 90,000 = Total Deposits Protected by CDIC

Jane's GIC, savings and chequing accounts are in her name only and all qualify for CDIC coverage within the same coverage category (deposits held in one name). As a result, total amounts in these accounts are combined and are insured for up to a total of $100,000 in the event of a member institution's failure.

A word about financial service providers, products and deposit protection

CDIC deposit insurance may be available for eligible financial products offered by a CDIC member, another financial institution, a broker, a third-party financial service provider (for example, a financial technology company), or other providers. To find out if your deposits are protected by CDIC, speak to your financial service provider.

What happens if a CDIC member fails?

In the unlikely event of failure of a CDIC member institution, CDIC provides access to insured funds (including interest) within days. It's automatic – we will contact you.

What you can do

- Know what is covered and what is not
- Keep your address, phone number and email up-to-date at your financial institution
- Ask your broker or financial advisor about CDIC's rules for deposits held in trust including keeping up-to-date beneficiary information
